Hi Peter,

Here is the website link

<https://science.house.gov/legislation/hearings/full-committee-hearing-ensuring-sound-science-epa>

Your name (work) is mentioned several times around the middle of hearing.

Yes, hope that I may have the opportunity to work with you soon. It is pity that exposure assessment is not really a main focus in our office (NCEA) -- only one or two peoples (like Matt Lorber) is doing it now.

Best

Yu-Sheng

Hello Yu-Sheng,

It is great to hear from you! I'm doing well and hope you are too. How is (are) the kid(s)? I apologize that I cannot remember anything other than you joked about naming her Brook Lin and that Brooklyn is actually a popular name for girls these days.

Thank you for letting me know that my name came up during the hearing. I will have to find the recording. To be completely honest, I never imagined that agreeing to work with IARC would result in the EPA administrator testifying to Congress.

I pretty much left the pesticide world behind, but science articles have staying power, so I am sometimes approached to review things.

Anyway, I hope that our paths cross soon.

Take care,

Peter

How have you been recently? Do you get involved in more pesticide exposure assessment ?

I just listen to McCarthy's congress hearing. Your name is mentioned several times --- you really did an amazing job in Glyphosate assessment.

Take care

Cheers
